LET THE CHIPS FLY

February already! It's far enough into the new year to have made and broken a few New Year's resolutions. I know that my resolution to clean up the shavings after every turning session went away somewhere around the 3rd of January. I have however resolved to accomplish a few other turning related things this year and I want to invite you to join me in making 2018 a year of exceptional turning. Here is my list:

- 1) Set aside some time to turn every week. I understand I will improve with regular practice.
- 2) Turn something I haven't turned before. I understand that I will improve when I challenge myself.
- 3) Turn a lidded box for Beads of Courage. My turnings gain meaning when I share them with others and expect nothing in return.
- 4) Turn at least 12 bowls for Empty Bowls by October. A simple meal in a simple bowl will help feed someone with less advantages than I have been given.
- 5) Introduce someone to turning by bringing them to a meeting or inviting them to my shop to turn. My hobby and my art gains new life when it is shared with someone.
- 6) Take a class. I will improve my skill if I am willing to learn from those who know more than I do.
- 7) Join the club in the Pens for Troops project. Giving back is just the right thing to do.

I hope this provides a little inspiration and that 2018 is a good year for each of you.

Happy turning,

Darcy Tataryn
President
Willamette Valley Woodturners

What's wrong with Yew?

Submitted by Mark Choitz

Could be I didn't use my PPE while sanding or turning an "irritating" wood species. I got to thinking about this after I finished a three segmented lidded box that I was making for a relative to store salt and pepper in. And yes I had used some Yew wood that I had ...

Type	Reaction	Site	Potency	Source	Incidence
Yew	Irritant, direct toxin, nausea	Skin, eyes, cardiac	++,++++	Dust, wood	Common

After a little research I came to the conclusion that most woods are safe to use once a finish is applied and cured. We should always follow the minimum safety procedures for what is being done. Some of these include:

1. dust mask/respirator - on,
2. dust extraction at the work site-on,
3. overhead filter - on.

I even turn on a fan to create a cross current blowing sanding dust out of my work area. Some of the woods that irritate me are myrtle, redwood and black walnut. Hey, don't wait to find out what kinds of wood bother you, suit up and protect your lungs every time. Here's a link you might want to look at for more information:

<https://www.woodworkerssource.com/shop/wtox.html>

"Not to omit any one of them, the yew is similar to these other trees in general appearance . . . It is an ascertained fact that travellers' vessels, made in Gaul of this wood, for the purpose of holding wine, have caused the death of those who used them."

Would you help a sick child get better?

Submitted by Mark Choitz

You've probably heard of the Beads of Courage and strengthen children and families coping children tell their story using colorful beads as safe place to keep their beads and that's where program. It is the program designed to support with serious illness. Through the program, meaningful symbols of courage. The kids need a we can help.

Our club has turned lidded boxes for the past three years to donate at the national AAW symposium. In 2017 we gathered and delivered over 40 boxes at the Oregon Woodturning Symposium. We have an opportunity to help a child get through a tough time in their life by doing what we like to do. The 32nd AAW Symposium is coming up in June, 2018 in Portland. There will be a collection site for Beads of Courage boxes at the Symposium. We will be collecting boxes at the club meetings before the symposium for those not attending. If you plan to attend the Symposium then you can take your box then. If you have any questions please contact Mark Choitz at msc6990@gmail.com

American Association of Woodturners Symposium to be held in Portland Oregon in 2018

Submitted by Peter Gibson of Cascade Woodturners in Portland

This year the AAW Board has agree to allow any school teacher that is a certified instructor and actively employed by a school system to attend the symposium for free. As a registered attendee they can also sponsor up to 3 youth into the Youth Program.

AAW Youth Program Policy as of January 23, 2018

The following policy applies to the Symposium Youth Program, and are subject to change each year.

Eligibility:

Youth ages 10 to 18 are eligible to register for free hands-on instruction. There will be no exceptions to this rule. Youth may have participated in prior Youth Room activities at prior symposia.

Space is limited and each registered youth must be accompanied and sponsored by an adult who is registered for the symposium. Students will make a variety of projects.

Registration and Enrollment:

For youth to have their classes pre-assigned prior to the symposium they must be registered no later than June 1, 2018. Youth registering after the deadline will be required to sign up for open classes at the symposium. As part of the pre-registration process, youth will be expected to specify the classes in which they wish to enroll. The Youth Program coordinator will confirm enrollment for up to three classes in advance of the symposium.

Youth Sponsors:

All Sponsors must be registered for the symposium. Sponsors fall into three categories: (1) Parent, adult relative, or legal guardian; (2) Coach/instructor; (3) Adult Family Friend. A registered participant may sponsor up to 3 youth. Requests to sponsor more than 3 youth must be approved in advance by the AAW Board member responsible for the youth program. Sponsors must volunteer in the youth room, or provide an alternate, for one rotation for each youth sponsored.

Turning Packages

Each year there will be a drawing for donated youth room equipment, which may include lathes, tools, and face shields, thanks to the Youth Room contributors. The equipment available for this drawing will be determined each year. There is no guarantee that all equipment in the Youth Room will be available for the drawing.

One turning package winner per household in a year. Once a family has a name drawn any subsequent names from the same family must be brought to the attention of the youth program coordinator during the drawing so that another name from a different household can be drawn.

Thank you for helping spread the word and hope to see ya in June at the AAW Symposium. And by the way, I'm responsible for the set-up and take-down of the youth room and if you have a extra hour or three on Wednesday, Thursday or Sunday can always use extra help. Trust this finds you and yours healthy and happy.
