LET THE CHIPS FLY

We are only one month away from the AAW symposium. This event is without a doubt something to not be missed. Whether you attend the whole event and all the classes or just hang out for a day, there is no doubt that you will be able to find something of interest. The instant gallery displays at symposiums always leaves me feeling like an amateur and at the same time inspires me to improve my own turning skills.

If you haven't finished your beads of courage box yet it is not too late. We still have the opportunity to get these completed and ready to display at the symposium.

In order to show support for the AAW, our parent organization, our executive board has decided to not hold a June meeting in Salem. If you need your dose of monthly turning plan on being in Portland. There won't be more turning this close to us again for a while.

Our regular meetings will resume in July.

With our year almost 1/2 over I would like to start encouraging everyone to once again start planning for next year and thinking about what you can do for the club. At least 3 of our board members will have reached term limits and will be retiring from office. If you would like to serve please let our current board members know. We can help you get familiar with the inner workings of the club a little earlier to help prepare for the transition.

What's on my Lathe?

Submitted by Mark Choitz

Well, I have challenged myself to make a few Beads of Courage boxes for the upcoming AAW Symposium. Here's a picture of the rough cut blanks and the finished boxes. It was difficult to think up five different shapes. If you plan to make a lidded box to help support the Beads of Courage program and would like to have a bead to use in the design let me know and I'll be certain to get it to you. If you don't plan to attend the AAW Symposium I will be collecting any boxes that need a ride to Portland in June - I will be at the May meeting collecting these. If you are unfamiliar with the program check out this link to find out particulars beads

Guidelines

In order to sufficiently hold beads, turned boxes need to be no smaller than 6" in diameter - larger is okay.

Make sure lids are easily removable.

Finials or knobs should be easy for a small child to grasp and not too elaborate or pointed.

Sign your name or write "American Association of Woodturners" on the bottom.

Update: Pens for Troops

We are well on our way to meeting our 1,000 pen goal in the Pens for Troops project. I have about 130 kits left and will bring them along to the May meeting. For those of you who still have kits signed out, get out to your shops, get the pens turned and get them back to me as soon as possible. I would like the entire project completed within the next month, as we have another community service project beginning in the fall, and summer is a busy time for everyone.

A few special thanks for significant contributions to the project. Tom Huhn, our resident blind turner completed 50 pens, and another un-named (at his request) turner is working on 100. Many thanks to all of you who have contributed your fine efforts, your time and your talent to this very worthwhile club outreach.

Jigs, Gadgets and Gizmos – July Meeting

Many club members can rightfully list ingenuity high on their list of personal attributes. Woodturning – and woodworking in general – often becomes an exercise in problem-solving. If you have solved a vexing woodturning problem, sharing your solution might save a fellow club member a whole lot of trouble. Please share your invention, your creation, and your design process with the membership at our July meeting.

If you have a steady rest, a router carriage, an indexing device, or any other gadget you've fabricated for your lathe, your grinder, or your tools, we want to hear from you. We would like five or six club members to share the presentation, meaning each person would only need to prepare for about 15 minutes of talking. Please get in touch with Jeff Zens (jeffzens@custombuiltfurniture.com) by May 17 to share your "genius" with the club.

Thanks!!

Welcome to our new member:

Upcoming Events

May 10: Demonstrator: Nick Stagg: Open-Form Hollow Vessel

Longtime Willamette Valley Woodturners member Nick Stagg is our featured presenter for May. Nick has served as one of our primary mentors and sharpening gurus and is a periodic contributor to American Woodturner. He's done frequent demonstrations for woodturning clubs including ours, and is returning in May after a several-year absence.

For the May demo, Nick will turn an open-form hollow vessel. He will demonstrate several different cuts to achieve the form he seeks, both on the inside and outside walls. Because the tool's sharpening profile is directly related to the cut and the location on the vessel, he will discuss and demonstrate the sharpening techniques he uses.

Nick has a few primary objectives for the demonstration. First, to emphasize the relationship between sharpening profile and the various cuts he'll make on the vessel. Second, he wants to build our confidence that these cuts can be used on any hollow vessel of any size to achieve superior results and minimize sanding time.

Protect wood from chuck jaws

An AAW article

After trying several ideas for reversing a small turning and holding it in a chuck to finish the bottom, I devised my own method, which is simple and inexpensive. I had tried cloth, tape, foam, and electrical wire, but always ended up with marks on the turning from the chuck jaws. To solve this, I took some plastic tubing, which is available by the foot in a variety of sizes, and slid it on the chuck jaws.

For pin jaws I cut pieces the length of the jaws. For No. 2 jaws, I cut pieces long enough to cover each jaw. I cut a slit in the tubing so that it can slip over each jaw. The tubing is thick enough to prevent the marks and also provides some holding power for the work piece.

For pin jaws I use 5/8" (16 mm) ID tubing and for the No. 2 jaws, 3/8" (10 mm) ID tubing. Other chucks may require different sizes.
